

Record Memphis Cotton Deal Made

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—The biggest commercial business deal in Memphis history—the purchase of about 1.5 million bales of cotton for $172,873,697—was made at one minute after midnight today.

● TRAVIS

(Continued from Page 1)

marked cars, but got the manpower request vetoed by commissioners.

When commissioners indicated they would provide funds for uniforms alone, Lang said he needed the entire package or nothing at all.

A uniformed patrol has been urged by countless grand juries.

● RIGHTS

(Continued from Page 1)

day an attempt to remove the federal jury provision from the bill but other amendments to that section are still to be acted on.

Once the federal jury section is disposed of the House will plunge into deeper controversy over a provision aimed at preventing discrimination in the selection of state juries.

2 Brothers Reunited In Viet Nam

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—

Two U.S. servicemen whose mother lives in Charlotte were reunited in Viet Nam recently after not seeing each other for almost seven years.

A third brother will go to Viet Nam in October shortly before one of his brothers heads for home.

Now in Viet Nam are SW2 Tom Poley, 30, of the Navy's Seabees, and Spec. 4 Leon Poley, 22, of the Army's 1st Cavalry.

Tom's service assignments have kept him away from home for almost seven years. During that time his parents moved from Longview, Tex., to Charlotte.

Now a third brother, Ray Poley, 33, also a Seabee and stationed at Davisville, R.I., has learned that his unit will replace Tom's in Viet Nam.

Fonda's Ex In Italian Jail

ROME (AP) — Countess Aldera Franchetti, Italian socialite and former wife of actor Henry Fonda, was arrested Sunday on a charge of carrying marijuana into Italy.

The countess' luggage was searched by police at Rome's Fiumicino Airport when she arrived on a flight from London. Arrested with her was Italian pop artist Mario Schifano, 32, who was charged with complicity.

Authorities said her luggage contained about 1.7 ounces of marijuana. The 33-year-old countess and Schifano, if convicted, could receive up to eight years in jail.

Princess Has Second Child

LONDON (AP) — Princess Alexandra gave birth Sunday night to a daughter, who becomes 17th in line to the British throne.

The princess and the baby, who weighed 7 pounds, 8 ounces, were reported well.

Princess Alexandra, 29, is the wife of Angus Ogilvy, wealthy Scottish business executive and the son of the Earl and Countess of Airlie. They were married in 1963 and have another child, James Robert Bruce Ogilvy, 2.

Three Killed In Plane Crash

CHILLICOTHE, Mo., (AP)—Three persons were killed and one was injured today in the crash of a four-place single-engine plane just after it had taken off from the Chillicothe Municipal Airport.

Those killed in the flaming crash were identified as Mrs. Mary Jane Churchill, 35, Chillicothe, John P. Joyce, 45, Chillicothe salesman, and his wife, June, 44.

Mrs. Churchill's husband, Don, an official of a truck firm, was reported in a critical condition at a Chillicothe hospital. He was thrown from the plane and suffered severe burns.

● SNIPER

(Continued from Page 1)

much as two blocks away still in the sniper's range.

Every police officer in the city went to the scene and tried to return the sniper's fire. A Department of Public Safety airplane manned by city police officers was called to assist in spotting the man in the tower.

The known dead included a city police officer, Patrolman Billy P. Speed, Paul Sonntag, grandson of KTBG newsman Paul Bolton; Robert L. Boyer, an associate professor of geology and education, Roy Schmidt, Claudia Rutt, Thomas Eckman, and Mark G. A. Bown. Among the wounded, his condition unknown, was Associated Press writer Robert Heard.

The emergency room at Brackenridge Hospital overflowed with the dead and wounded. Other victims of the sniper were taken to Seton Hospital.

The mills need cotton since supplies have been depleted while they awaited cotton from the CCC stocks at the lower prices prevailing today.

The CCC shipped the warehouse receipts for the cotton to the banks nearly two weeks ago, along with the drafts to each buyer dated Aug. 1. Shippers made their credit arrangements in advance and the transfer of the huge amount of money came smoothly and swiftly.

The rush to move the cotton began in some cases seconds after the deals were closed, but it will take three weeks or a month before the movement is completed and the cotton is at the mills or port for export.

● DEMO

(Continued from Page 1)

had in mind when he said after returning from a Moscow visit last week that if the present trend continues he is "increasingly convinced that Viet Nam will develop into a major war."

"The danger is there, of course," Mansfield said. "We must keep in mind that escalation begets escalation in one form or another. The result of intensifying the attacks could be an open-ended war."

Aiken said he thinks there is a strong possibility that the Soviet Union doesn't want a major war. But he said a continuation of the conflict for two more years in which the United States might have to commit a large part of its fighting men and equipment might change the minds of Soviet leaders.

He said he does not believe the Russians are ready at this time to take any steps toward bringing about negotiations. He added this was demonstrated by their refusal as cochairman to reconvene the Geneva Conference for Viet Nam talks.

● SPECK

(Continued from Page 1)

graphs in the arraignment court. Previously, picture-taking had been barred in courtrooms where trials were held, but not at the pleadings.

Sixty-five sheriff's policemen were on duty in the courtroom and nearby corridors.

In the courtroom was Jose Naldo, an attaché of the Philippine Embassy, who said he was present as an observer because two of the slaying victims were Philippine exchange nurses.

The other six were senior student nurses from Chicago and the surrounding area. All were employed at South Chicago Community Hospital which had leased the house at 2319 E. 100th St., a mile from the hospital, for use as nurse quarters.

Eruptions Fear Told For Manila

MANILA (AP) — Volcanologists warned Manila's three million people today to be prepared for violent earthquakes which may be brought on by the erupting Taal volcano.

A spokesman for the Volcanology Commission said the volcano, now in its 27th day of eruptions 45 miles south of Manila, may "precipitate earthquakes of moderately strong to strong intensity."

The spokesman said earthquake activity early today on the small volcanic island in the center of Lake Taal was the highest recorded since the new eruptions started.

British Close Colonial Office

LONDON (AP) — The British Colonial Office, whose representatives once controlled millions of persons from Abakke to Zanzibar, passed into history today.

Although some 30 British governors will rule distant places around the globe, the Colonial Office was closed at midnight and its functions were transferred to the new Department of Territories Division under the commonwealth secretary.

● STRIKE

(Continued from Page 1)

feeling of resentment, a feeling that there cannot be an indefinite continuation of this strike," Wirtz said.

"Does the administration now seek legislation?" asked Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

"I'm not here seeking legislation at this moment," Wirtz said. "I said that collective bargaining should be given a last clear chance. It had a chance, almost worked the way it's supposed to work."

Javits pressed for a statement on President Johnson's opinion about legislation.

"He's either asking for it or he isn't or he's neutral or something," Javits said.

"I'm not prepared at this moment to make a recommendation for the administration," Wirtz said.

Morse asked whether it would be fair to say the administration is not opposing legislation.

"That is entirely true," Wirtz said.

"You're not telling us not to do it and you're not telling us to do it," said Javits.

Wirtz said that was a fair assessment.

Wirtz testified last Wednesday that Congress should forego immediate legislation, saying the strike had not created a national emergency.

The machinists who grounded 60 per cent of the nation's air traffic threw a monkey wrench into the White House agreement Sunday by rejecting it in secret balloting, 17,251 to 6,587.

Despite the big wage and fringe benefit gains totaling 72 cents an hour spread over a three-year contract, the strikers apparently decided it was too little and too late. Many said they wanted the full benefits right now without waiting for the second and third year of the contract. Others said they didn't get a better pension plan or a cost of living escalator clause.

The union's president, P.L. (Roy) Siemiller, had recommended that the strikers accept the agreement. Their rejection of the pact did not jeopardize his position, observers said. Many units, in reporting their thumbs-down vote, sent along messages such as "We're with you all the way. Keep fighting."

"This will be the last strike in this industry," growled one 20-year veteran of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists in predicting Congress would land on the union with both feet.

It was not immediately clear whether the Senate would revive plans to give Johnson power to order the strikers back to work, or have Congress do the politically unpopular job itself.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

● STRIKE

(Continued from Page 1)

feeling of resentment, a feeling that there cannot be an indefinite continuation of this strike," Wirtz said.

"Does the administration now seek legislation?" asked Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

"I'm not here seeking legislation at this moment," Wirtz said. "I said that collective bargaining should be given a last clear chance. It had a chance, almost worked the way it's supposed to work."

Javits pressed for a statement on President Johnson's opinion about legislation.

"He's either asking for it or he isn't or he's neutral or something," Javits said.

"I'm not prepared at this moment to make a recommendation for the administration," Wirtz said.

Morse asked whether it would be fair to say the administration is not opposing legislation.

"That is entirely true," Wirtz said.

"You're not telling us not to do it and you're not telling us to do it," said Javits.

Wirtz said that was a fair assessment.

Wirtz testified last Wednesday that Congress should forego immediate legislation, saying the strike had not created a national emergency.

The machinists who grounded 60 per cent of the nation's air traffic threw a monkey wrench into the White House agreement Sunday by rejecting it in secret balloting, 17,251 to 6,587.

Despite the big wage and fringe benefit gains totaling 72 cents an hour spread over a three-year contract, the strikers apparently decided it was too little and too late. Many said they wanted the full benefits right now without waiting for the second and third year of the contract. Others said they didn't get a better pension plan or a cost of living escalator clause.

The union's president, P.L. (Roy) Siemiller, had recommended that the strikers accept the agreement. Their rejection of the pact did not jeopardize his position, observers said. Many units, in reporting their thumbs-down vote, sent along messages such as "We're with you all the way. Keep fighting."

"This will be the last strike in this industry," growled one 20-year veteran of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists in predicting Congress would land on the union with both feet.

It was not immediately clear whether the Senate would revive plans to give Johnson power to order the strikers back to work, or have Congress do the politically unpopular job itself.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

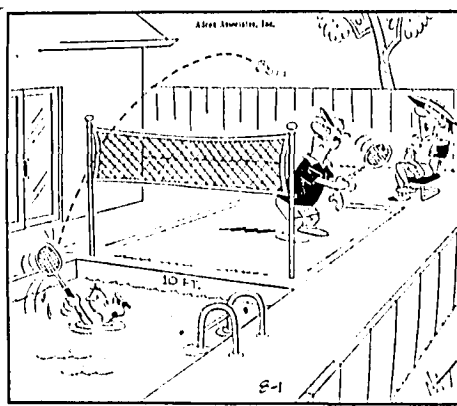

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

BELVEDERE

● RAID

(Continued from Page 1)

two square tables; 1 table covered with a printed dice layout; one ledger; 14 fifths of Cutty Sark; five fifths of gin; one blackjack card layout and one dice layout.

"It was a pretty elaborate layout," the sheriff said. "Regular professional stuff."

Lang said the ledger contained "about 100 nicknames" with out-of-town telephone numbers.

"We didn't find a single Austin number listed," he said.

Mallard listed his occupation as a rancher.

Lang said the house is located on a 10-acre plot in the Decker Lake area.

UT Prof Dates Talk in Madrid

A well-known University of Texas pharmacy researcher will present a paper in September at a meeting of the International Pharmaceutical Federation in Madrid, Spain.

He is Dr. John Antian, professor of pharmacy and director of the College of Pharmacy Drug-Plastic Research and Toxicology Laboratories.

The International Pharmaceutical Federation meeting opens Sept. 18 and continues for a week.

It was not immediately clear whether the Senate would revive plans to give Johnson power to order the strikers back to work, or have Congress do the politically unpopular job itself.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

The vote by striking machinists of United, Eastern, Northwest, National and Trans World Airlines repudiated Congress. Johnson and the union's own leaders and brought an abrupt cancellation of preparations by the five lines to get back into the air.

The rejection which gave Johnson his first setback in settling major labor disputes turned down a contract containing an estimated 6 per cent a year increases — nearly double White House wage guidelines designed to curb inflation. But Johnson, in announcing the agreement Friday night said "this settlement will not be inflationary" because of increased productivity in the industry.

Odor Sought At Nederland

NEDERLAND, Tex. (AP)—

The Jefferson County Air Pollution Commission is investigating complaints of a penetrating odor which made many residents nauseous.

More than 100 complaints were received recently. Residents said the odor was so strong that it had penetrated into refrigerators and spoiled food. Bakeries had to pick up loaves of bread from grocery shelves because of contamination.

Nederland is in the midst of a large petrochemical complex between Beaumont and Port Arthur.

Priest Dies In Cliff Fall

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A Roman Catholic priest from Oklahoma, attending summer classes at the University of San Francisco, fell to his death from a cliff at San Francisco's Land's End while hiking today.

The Rev. Wilmer T. Rath, 32, of Stillwater, Okla., fell onto rocks 40 feet below as he attempted to climb a steep, 60-foot bluff near the palace of the Legion of Honor, police said.

Young said that the use of the Agena demonstrated that another satellite can be used as a tanker and a supplementary engine for manned space ships.

Americans eat more than three billion quarts of popcorn annually.

Young said that the use of the Agena demonstrated that another satellite can be used as a tanker and a supplementary engine for manned space ships.

Americans eat more than three billion quarts of popcorn annually.

Young said that the use of the Agena demonstrated that another satellite can be used as a tanker and a supplementary engine for manned space ships.

Americans eat more than three billion quarts of popcorn annually.

Young said that the use of the Agena demonstrated that another satellite can be used as a tanker and a supplementary engine for manned space ships.

Americans eat more than three billion quarts of popcorn annually.

Young said that the use of the Agena demonstrated that another satellite can be used as a tanker and a supplementary engine for manned space ships.

Americans eat more than three billion quarts of popcorn annually.

Young said that the use of the Agena demonstrated that another satellite can be used as a tanker and a supplementary engine for manned space ships.

Americans eat more than three billion quarts of popcorn annually.

Young said that the use of the Agena demonstrated that another satellite can be used as a tanker and a supplementary engine for manned space ships.

Americans eat more than three billion quarts of popcorn annually.

Young said that the use of the Agena demonstrated that another satellite can be used as a tanker and a supplementary engine for manned space ships.

Americans eat more than three billion quarts of popcorn annually.

Young said that the use of the Agena demonstrated that another satellite can be